

Have you ever read The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn, Forever, The Catcher in the Rye, Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows, In the Night Kitchen, or Beloved?

Then you have read a banned or challenged book! Banned Books Week 2008 is being celebrated in the MTC Library from September 27th through October 4th with a display of many of these books. At www.google.com/bannedbooks, you can explore 42 banned or challenged titles, each considered one of the best novels of the 20th century by the Radcliffe Publishing Course. You will find another extensive list of "books suppressed or censored by legal authorities" at <http://onlinebooks.library.upenn.edu/banned-books.html>. We hope you will stop by to see the display and celebrate your freedom to read.

Banned Books Week is observed during the last week of September each year. Since 1982, this annual event reminds Americans not to take this precious constitutional freedom for granted.
